"When in Europe, two years ago, I tried [illegible] but got no relief. I also tried [illegible] any remedy, but got no relief. I [illegible] suffered with rheumatism for years and spent hundreds of dollars, but received no relief until I used this. Since then, over two years ago, I have been free from it. It is a good thing. Here is another from nearer home. Mr. J. D. White is a leading business man of Bloomsburg, Pa. His grandfather, over 81 years old, has been afflicted with rheumatism. Nov. 24, 1885, Mr. White writes us:
"I have read your circular. The country is so full of patent medicine humbugs that we pay little or no attention to any remedy has merit until it is tried. My grandfather is such a sufferer that he would gladly give but a single dollar for relief, but I have your circular for a time. He will try it anyway, because he don't think your [illegible] would be [illegible] anything without merit."
Dec. 21, he says: "My grandfather pronounces the Eureka Rheumatism Cure a first-class success. He is now pleased one day only, but all gardens."
If you doubt either of these statements, write the parties; they'll gladly answer any inquiry. Our space does not permit further testimony. We have proofs of it, however. It makes quite a little book. We send it free to all who ask.

THE STATUE OF LIBERTY.

HOW IT WAS MADE AND PUT IN PLACE.

The New York Tribune thus reviews the history of the great work of M. Bartholdi which was unveiled on Thursday of last week in the New York harbor.

The history of the Bartholdi statue from first to last is a checkered one and goes back through all sorts of delays and difficulties for almost twenty years. It was, strangely enough, just at the close of the disastrous war with Germany and while the horrors of the Commune were still raging in Paris that M. Laboulaye, the founder of the French-American Union, first definitely broached his patriotic project of building in this country a joint memorial of the struggles of the French and Americans in the Revolution, and sent the young sculptor Bartholdi to the United States to find, if possible, some suitable and happy idea. The first suggestion of the statue, perhaps, dates still further back to a dinner given under the Empire by M. Laboulaye at his country house, Glavigny, near Versailles.

M. LABOULAYE'S HOPES AND FANCIES.

It was at that dinner at Glavigny in 1885, as Bartholdi himself says, that his mind was first turned in the direction it was afterward so devotedly and enthusiastically to follow. The after-dinner talk of M. Laboulaye's guests had fallen upon gratitude between nations. Some one said that such a thing as national gratitude could not exist. Italy no longer felt grateful for the good officers of France in 1859; even with the United States France could no more count on the remembrance of the past.

This M. Laboulaye stoutly protested against. Whatever might be the case with Italy, he said, with America France had still a greater sympathy than with any European nation. America's feeling toward France, too, was not one of simple gratitude. It was based on the remembrance of a community of thought and struggles and aspirations. And when hearts had once beaten together something always remained behind among nations as among individuals. This, he continued, was the basis of the sentiment felt in the United States toward France, a sentiment honorable to Americans as well as French, and if a monument were to be built in America as a memorial of independence it would be most natural to have it built by a united effort, to make it the common work of both nations.

Five years after, in the midst of the war with Germany, Bartholdi found himself recurring again to this conversation. The war was soon over and his native province, Alsace, shut against him. He resolved to travel for a year and visit the country in which his interest had been so sharply aroused. In a month or two he found himself again at M. Laboulaye's house near Versailles. With him were M. Lafayette, Henri Martin, Remusat, Volowski and DeGasparin. The talk turned once more on the feeling of America for France. M. Laboulaye took up his old views again and declared that without a doubt by 1876 there would be a strong patriotic and French movement in America.

"Go to see that country," he said to Bartholdi. "You will study it, and bring back your impressions. Propose to our friends over there to make a monument in common in remembrance of the ancient friendship between France and the United States. We will take up a subscription in France. If you find a happy idea, we are convinced that it will be successful on both continents, and we shall do a work which will have a far-reaching moral effect."

Bartholdi tells all this in his modest little sketch of the work of the French Committee. And in these two conversations at M. Laboulaye's the germ of the French-American Union's project may be found.

BARTHOLDI'S VISIT TO AMERICA.

The sculptor thought over some plans for the proposed monument on the way out, but only hazily. Suddenly, one beautiful spring morning, steaming up through the Narrows into New York Bay, the moment of inspiration came and the sculptor saw in fancy the majestic figure of Liberty towering with her torch over the bastions of old Fort Wood, lighting the crowded harbor, with its tributary rivers and the vast, blackhued cities on their borders, the very image of a teeming, populous miniature world.

With all his travels in America that impression grew only sharper and more defined. Before returning to France he made a water color drawing of the Statue of Liberty on Bedlow's Island, and showing it to various prominent men in America, in the Union League Club in New York more particularly and in Philadelphia—to whom M. Laboulaye had given him letters of introduction, he soon discovered that he could look for support in the United States—that, as he says, the draft drawn by the French Committee on American sentiment would not be protested. M. Laboulaye had had some correspondence already with John Jay and others respecting the monument; but though the interest which Bartholdi mentions was no doubt aroused, no formal action was taken until the sculptor's second visit here.

THE FRENCH-AMERICAN UNION.

Going back to France, Bartholdi ran over his impressions to M. Laboulaye and his friends, and laid before them the plan for a statue in New York harbor. They adopted it with enthusiasm. A committee was organized under the name of the French-American Union, and Bartholdi set to work to make his first models. The fall plan of the Union was made public at the end of 1874, and subscription lists were soon circulating throughout France. A good deal of money came in at once and more was promised.

The actual moulding of the huge cast began in 1875. The birth of the statue was celebrated on November 6th of that year by a dinner at the Hotel du Louvre, at which the American Minister, Mr. Washburne, and all the prominent members of the French American Union were present. The right hand of the goddess was struck off in its colossal proportions and sent to the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia in 1876.

Bartholdi himself came over in that year as one of the French jury for the exhibition. The unveiling of his statue of Lafayette, which was ordered by the French Government as a gift to the city of New York in acknowledgment of the relief sent to Paris after the siege, and which now stands in Union Square, gave him an opportunity to push matters among his New York friends.

A call for a meeting at the Century Club was issued by William M. Evarts, John Jay, W. H. Wickham, S. D. Babcock, William H. Appleton and Richard Butler. There the plan of the French committee was talked over with Bartholdi and Rochambeau and an American committee was organized. Mr. Evarts was its chairman and Richard Butler its secretary. Sub-committees were appointed and weekly meetings were held for a time. The question of procuring legislation from Congress was the most important.

After some drawbacks and delays, a joint resolution was introduced accepting the statue and setting apart a site on either Governor's or Bedlow's Island for the statue, and on February 22, 1877, it passed both Houses. General W. T. Sherman was sent on to decide between the two, and wisely confirmed Bartholdi's choice. Fort Wood was given up as a military post and turned over to the use of the American committee.

TARDY GROWTH OF THE STATUE.

Bartholdi went back to France in the fall of 1876. The political crisis that came toward the end of MacMahon's Presidency had had a disastrous effect on the affairs of the French-American Union. Subscriptions had almost ceased to come in and word was sent to the American committee that the work on the foundation and pedestal of the statue had better be postponed for a year or two. It was not until 1879 that money enough was raised in France to pay the bare expenses of the work on the statue.

In 1878, however, Bartholdi, sanguine and undaunted as ever, executed the head for the Paris Exposition. The other parts followed at intervals, and by July, 1880, the French committee saw its way clear to report substantial progress to the American committee and to fix a probable date for the completion of the statue. On October 24, 1881, the anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown all the pieces of the framework and of the base were put in place, and Levi P. Morton, then United States Minister to France, was invited to drive the rivet of the first piece which was to be mounted. The statue was nearly finished in 1883, but the work on the pedestal here was so backward that it was decided to leave the completed goddess on exhibition for awhile in Paris.

Finally, on July 4, 1884, Count Ferdinand de Lesseps, who had succeeded M. Laboulaye as President of the French Committee, turned the statue over formerly to the United States through Mr. Morton. It stood six months longer waiting for the completion of the pedestal. It seemed for a time that it would have to wait forever, and the work of taking it down was begun in January, 1885, with many misgivings. The pieces were packed carefully in 210 cases and stowed on board the French man-of-war Isere at Rouen. The statue was insured for about half its value.

The Isere had an extremely rough voyage and had to put back once to Rouen to escape a storm. Outside the harbor of New York she was met by the French North Atlantic Squadron, under Admiral La Combe, and escorted into the bay with flying colors. The Isere reached New York in June, 1885. The pieces of the statue were lightered over to Bedlow's Island and were stored there until May last, when the work of setting up the great copper goddess for the last time was begun.

THE AMERICAN COMMITTEE'S TRIALS.

The American committee could do nothing, of course, after obtaining the grant of a site from Congress, but wait for the signal from M. Bartholdi and his friends to break ground for the statue's pedestal. In 1882 some preliminary steps were taken. A public meeting was held in the Academy of Music on November 28 of that year, and the taking of subscriptions was pushed vigorously.

The New York Legislature passed a bill appropriating $50,000 for the work on the pedestal. But Governor Cleveland vetoed it, to the great disgust of the managers of the Pedestal Fund, as unconstitutional. A still greater disappointment came with the winter of 1884-5. A bill appropriating $100,000 was introduced during the short session of Congress, and failed through the neglect of the Committee on Appropriations to insert the item in their final report.

Work on the foundation inside the old fort was begun in the spring of 1883, and the foundation itself was finished before the end of that year. In the spring of 1884 the corner-stone of the pedestal was laid, and a few tiers of granite were added now and then from month to month. The first bit of enthusiasm was over, and the subscription list hung fire. Statuettes and photographs were struck off by the committee and offered for sale, but the returns grew smaller and smaller. One hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars had been raised by the summer of 1884, and the committee's persuasive powers were apparently exhausted. Its run of bad luck could not be broken.

In March, 1885, when the statue was almost ready for shipment, and the American committee, in a state of thickening despair, the New York World unexpectedly undertook to raise the $100,000 still needed, and opened a subscription list of its own for that purpose. By July a total of $102,006.39 was turned into the Pedestal Fund. This tided the committee over the fall and winter of 1885, and served, indeed, to finish the massive pedestal in April, 1886.

The iron framework and braces for the support of the statue were put up in May and June, and on July 12th the work on the copper plating itself was begun. Many of the huge pieces boxed up so long, shaken about in so many handlings and exposed to a great variety of temperatures, had flattened out of their original shape. There was a great deal of delay from time to time in reforming them, and the summer was nearly gone before the goddess' skirts even were fitted fairly to her waist.

For the last month or more almost daily note has been made of the slow progress of riveting the vast copper sheathes together and the gradual softening of the heavy lines and surfaces which looked so coarse and vague aground, to the easy, graceful, airy symmetry of the splendid figure as it now stands. The statue was practically finished on October 16. From that day, at least, the American committee will always date its first moment of relief.

THE SITE AND THE FOUNDATION.

Bartholdi himself chose Bedlow's Island fifteen years ago for the site of his great monument. No spot, in fact, could have been a happier one for the purpose. From the shores of the Bay the level islet looks like the mere natural base of the vast statue and its solid-faced pedestal.

Cut away from any rival objects large or small, dwarfed or dwarfing, the colossal figure stands clearly against the free back-ground of water, land and sky, blending with them easily and simply, like an image drawn, as the goddess is, on their own scale. And if the great bronze figure fits, like one of its own rivets in the copper sheath, into the surroundings of sea and sky, the granite pedestal finds a ready-made support to the double star-shaped inner walls of old Fort Wood

The base of the pedestal is almost hidden from the outside behind them, and when the old parade ground is filled in, and the sodded terrace slopes gently downward from the crown of the foundation over them to the sea-wall below, their tops will make an easy break halt-way where the staircases will broaden out into spacious platforms, and benches will be ranged for loiterers in the pleasant weather. The outworks of the fort have disappeared; so have the powder-houses and the sally-ports. The bastions themselves will soon be buried in the dirt. Only the small sea battery with its guns freshly polished for display, not use, will be left to remind one in a year or two that Bedlow's Island was once a Government post.

The bulk of the pedestal's foundation will, of course, be out of sight when the landscape gardener has finished his work on the approaches to the statue. It starts, in fact, beneath the old parade ground, at thirteen feet above the mean low water mark. In shape it is something like a truncated pyramid, with a gentle slope.

It does not rise, however, with a continuous wall, but with a series of great layers of concrete, each one a trifle smaller than the one it rests upon. The top reaches up above the fort walls fifty-two feet ten inches from the base. There is no break to the very top. The whole thing is a vast mass of concrete and rock, which measures on its upper face about sixty-five feet square.

A WELL BUILT PEDESTAL.

The pedestal proper at its base is sixty-two feet square, and begins at an elevation above tide-water or sixty-five feet. In the middle of each face, just on a leval with the proposed terrace, is a doorway, five feet wide and thirteen feet high. On each side of every door is a projecting disk of stone on which the arms of the United States and of France will be cut in relief. Above the doors is a broad band of stone running around the pedestal and broken into forty smooth-faced medallions, ten on each side, on which the coats-of-arms of the various States will probably be placed. Still higher than the medallions are four large panels, twenty-three feet and six inches long and five feet and three inches from top to bottom. These will also be covered with appropriate inscriptions and designs.

Where the walls join again there is a jutting frieze of plain granite, crowned with a low open balcony on which four doors open again from the shaft within. Here the third section begins. The walls contract several feet, though the balcony rail breaks the sharpness of the effect from below. It is but a few tiers now to the top of the pedestal, hid from view by the rich drapery of the goddess's tunic. The topmost platform is thirty-nine feet and four and three eighths inches square and 154 feet above low-water mark.

The pedestal is in its way a most graceful and modest structure. It is neither monotonous or heavy, and has been made to look smaller than it really is. The goddess, in fact gains in point of elevation by this suppression, and towers over everything else, but the effect is in no way forced or stilt-like. The soft gray shade of the pedestal blends well with the reddish brown of the copper, and the whiteness of the rough quoins shows far across the water in the slanting rays of the early morning or late afternoon sun The granite used is from a quarry on Leete's Island in Connecticut, and the size of the blocks made the building of the pedestal one of the heaviest pieces of masonary ever undertaken about New York. General Charles P. Stone was the chief engineer of the work, Richard M. Hunt the arceitect, and David H. King, Jr., the builder. The pedestal cost in all about $250,000.

COLOSSAL SIZE OF THE FIGURE.

The Goddess of Liberty is the largest work of its kind that has ever been completed. The legendary Colossus of Rhodes could not possibly have had the shape of bigness attributed to it. The colossal statue of Arminius, in Bavaria, is about ninety-four feet in height: that of St. Charles Borromeo, on the shores of Lake Maggiore, sixty-six feet. The Virgin of Puy comes next, fifty-two feet, and statue of Bavoria last, scarcely more than a foot shorter. All of them shrink out of countenance beside the gigantic copper figure on Bedlow's Island.

The colossal in art, it is generally understood, can be used to express only a limited number of ideas. It must represent, if possible, some vast abstraction, and carry with it always the suggestion of power, majesty or infinity. Its peculiar effect is that of the physically sublime touched and heightened by the idea of moral sublimity. And so it is not the mere legendary goddess, with more than manly strength and more than womanly stateliness clear-eyed and wise and patient, like Minerva, that the sculptor means to represent.

The figure of a deep-browed woman is there, whose richly-pleated robes hang in soft rounded folds about her shapely breast and limbs, the pure, clear hair and the luxuriant hair crowned with a sparkling diadem of light, but through it all shines, as it ought to shine, the suggestion of that eager, proselyting passion for liberty for which the men of the Revolution spilled their blood in France and in America, and which, if in modern days only one of a sheaf of memories, is for both countries the most prized of them all.

This, at least, is the inspiration Bartholdi has striven to put into the great statue. It is on this that he and M. Laboulaye have counted for the figure's "far-reaching moral effect."

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1886.

Mr. Morrison of Illinois and Frank Hurd of Ohio, free trade democrats, were defeated in the late election; and the official count will be necessary to decide the result in Speaker Carlisle's district. As these were all leaders in free trade, with districts largely democratic it does not look as if the democratic party wanted free trade.

C. G. Murphy's vote is somewhat below the party majority. One reason assigned for not voting for him was that "the Irish all voted for Blaine in 1884, and they ought to be taught a lesson." It seems to us a suicidal policy to drive the Irish vote to Blaine in 1888 just for the satisfaction of "teaching them a lesson," for what they did in 1884. Conciliation is what is needed, not revenge. Besides this, Mr. Murphy was not responsible for the vote of Centralia in 1884.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS.

Pennsylvania elected the Republican state ticket by a majority of nearly 40,000.

John Lynch, Dem., has probably defeated Joseph A. Scranton, Rep., for Congress, in the 12th district.

Judge Gordon, Dem., is elected in Philadelphia by 10,000, over Amos Briggs, Rep.

Beaver's plurality over Black in Philadelphia is about 23,000.

Charles S. Wolfe is defeated for the Legislature in Union Co.

Abram S. Hewitt, Dem., is elected Mayor of New York. There was a warm contest waged between him and Henry George, labor candidate, and Theodore Roosevelt, Rep. The latter received the smallest vote of the three.

The National House of Representatives remains under the control of the Democrats, with 25 majority.

Bob Taylor, Dem., was elected Governor of Tennessee by 20,000.

If every district in the county had done as well for the State ticket as did Centralia, the Democratic majority in this county would have been 3,000. They gave Black 254 majority. In 1882 Pattison had 51 majority, and in 1884 Blaine had 26 majority.

WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST BE?

EDS. COLUMBIAN:—Whatever the result of the election (this) Tuesday, one thing was very prominently forced to the front through the intensity of the fight during the entire campaign, viz: that corruption in all its forms is profitable to the favored few, and spares neither means nor principle to accomplish its object, and usually all its organized forces are concentrated into machine operations, directed and worked by the most unscrupulous and unprincipled of men. As citizens, so far as relates to their general character, personal integrity and dignity, and their social, intellectual and christian relations, all three gubernatorial aspirants are men among our foremost, honored and respected by all. But as they, each and severally represent different principles that must apply to the general government of our state affairs and individual interest, it is of vital importance to every citizen of the community at large as to which of the three shall be entrusted with the "ship of state." The question is not merely which party shall rule or, who shall be governor. But there are serious and profound issues confronting the people which sooner or later must meet with peaceful and satisfactory solution among wise and able statesman, or they will thrust the people into confusion, riot and bloodshed through the blundering zeal for party spoils. Our liberties, our institutions and our prosperity are more or less affected, or endangered by the triumph of the one, or of the other. Corruption is the enemy of the people, the drone of any government, state or national, and represents all that is dishonest and unjust. The laboring and producing classes realize this most emphatically. Farmers and mechanics feel the pressure of the oppressor's power, and that power is corruption embodied in private corporations and monopolized discriminations and their chief exponent during the campaign was James A. Beaver, and their principal herald James G. Blaine and main organ the Philadelphia Press with a host of lesser satellites. As the people have now chosen, so they must abide the consequences and reap the fruits of their sowing. If to the wind—the whirlwind; if to the honest government—prosperity, peace and plenty.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, October 31.—The following is President Cleveland's proclamation designating Thursday, November 25, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer:

It has long been a custom of the people of the United States, on a day in each year especially set apart for that purpose by their chief executive, to acknowledge the goodness and mercy of God, and to invoke His continued care and protection. In observance of such custom, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 25th day of November, instant, to be observed and kept as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. On that day let all our people forego their accustomed employments and assemble in their usual places of worship to give thanks to the Ruler of the universe for our continued enjoyment of the blessings of a free Government, for a renewal of business prosperity throughout our land, for the return which has rewarded the labor of those who till the soil, and for our progress as a people in all that makes a nation great.

And while we contemplate the infinite power of God in earthquake, flood and storm, let the grateful hearts of those who have been shielded from harm through His mercy be turned in sympathy and kindness towards those who have suffered through his visitations. Let us also in the midst of our thanksgiving remember the poor and needy with cheerful gifts and alms, so that our service may, by deeds of charity, be made acceptable in the sight of the Lord. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eleventh.

Under the Fallen Walls.

THE INSURANCE PATROL MEN CAUGHT WHEN THE CRASH CAME.

CHICAGO, November 1—A conflagration causing the loss of nearly $250,000 and probably several lives occurred in the Knight & Leonard six-story building, 109 and 111 East Madison street, between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. The inmates of the dozens of gambling houses in the vicinity were unaware of the fire at the outset and it made such rapid headway that none had stirred from the tables until the lives of most of them were imperiled. Then a wild stampede ensued. The proprietors hurried their gold and greenbacks into satchels, others shoveled ivory chips into bags, a few rushed down stairs loaded with roulette wheels, faro tables and gambling paraphernalia of all descriptions. But these were the exceptions. The majority—dealers, lookouts and players—rose together and came tearing out of the building, many hatless and coatless and all frightened. After an hour's work by the firemen the flames were under comparative control.

At this time six men of the Insurance Patrol were in the building, slinging tarpaulins over the stock of the Goodyear Rubber Company. Suddenly there was a terrible crash, followed by a dense wave of smoke and sparks, which puffed out into the street. The roof and top floor had fallen through to the basement, burying the men of the Insurance Patrol in the ruins. A moment after the crash a detachment of firemen and insurance patrolmen, led by Chief Sweenie, rushed to the rescue. The cries of the imprisoned men could be heard above all the din. Hardly were the rescuers at work, chopping and tearing away the fallen beams and splintered flooring, when there was another crash and a heavy piece of machinery fell from the third floor. It was so far back in the building that no one was hurt and the rescuers continued manfully without a stop. George Furneld was the first man out. He came up through a hole which had been made in the sidewalk lights over the basement. He was only slightly injured. William Darby also managed to crawl out of the ruins with only slight injuries. The rescuing party found Captain Hume pinned down under a fallen beam and wedged in between two boxes of goods. He was carried out—both legs crushed and the left foot turned completely around. P. Mullins was dragged from under the heavy beams. He was cut about the head and his body fearfully bruised.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Gus Bourgemenke was being held down by a heavy piece of printing machinery, so that all efforts to release him seemed useless. He clutched convulsively at the iron bars and wheels, begging his comrades to kill him, as they could not get him out. The sewer of the basement had become choked up, and the immense amount of water thrown into the building was rapidly rising under Bourgemenke's body, while the flames were gradually eating their way toward him. Chief Sweenie ordered an engine detached from a fireplug and set to work pumping the basement of the floods from the other engines, whose efforts were redoubled against the fire. The water had just reached Bourgemenke's chin, when they began to go down and the flames commenced to recede. With the aid of jackscrews the machinery was at last raised, and Bourgemenke, who for nearly three-quarters of an hour had given himself up for lost, was carried to the hospital. One of his legs is broken and an arm is shattered, but it is thought he will live.

FATALLY WOUNDED BY FOLLY.

The body of C. Papineau was found in the ruins late this evening, and in getting it out another fireman was fatally injured and two seriously wounded. The fire and the fall of the roof had damaged many telephone and telegraph wires Gangs of linemen were sent to the roofs adjoining to straighten the tangled mass. They were requested to wait until the firemen found Papineau's body, but did not comply. While pulling a heavy cable over a wall a piece of jagged iron cornice was dislodged. It fell to the basement and struck Fireman Michael McGovern in the small of the back, and while his companions picked him up policemen hurried to the roof and intercepted the linemen. While helping to carry out the wounded man William Cornell, of the Insurance Patrol, fell through a hole in the broken sidewalk and was so seriously injured that he had to be taken to the hospital. McGovern was horribly mangled by the cornice and is dying. Eighteen of the linemen were put under arrest, but afterward released, telegraph officials becoming their surety.

A U. S. Officer Shot.

A DISCHARGED EMPOYE SEEKING REVENGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Hans S. Beattie, the Surveyor of the Port, was shot in his office at the Custom House soon after noon to-day by Louis Bieral, an Ex-Inspector. Three shots were fired. The excitement caused at the Custom House by the attempted assassination was intense. Bieral was discharged by Mr. Beattie two or three weeks ago, and the shooting was done, doubtless, for revenge. It is said Bieral has been acting very strange of late, and one of his friends said to-day that he ought not to have baen permitted to be at large. When the shots were fired a number of persons in the other offices rushed to Mr. Beattie's aid. He was found lying upon the floor, while his assailant stood close by, the smoking pistol in his hand. It is reported that Mr. Beattie was heard to appeal for mercy, crying "For God's sake do not shoot!" The discharges of the pistol followed rapidly one after the other. An ambulance was summoned, and the surgeon in examining the Surveyor decided that he was not seriously wounded. The wounds were in the groin and left hand.

Louis Bieral, who is a Frenchman by birth, had been in the Customs service as inspector, storekeeper and night watchman for several years. He was last an inspector at Castle Garden and was dismissed about two months ago. The shooting was undoubtedly committed out of revenge for Bieral's dismissal. When arrested, as he was immediately after the shooting, Bieral declared that Beattie had ruined him in business. The weapon used was a large old-fashioned five-barrel revolver. It apparently carried a ball of 42-calibre. Bieral is over 60 years of age, served in the Union army in an Ohio regiment, it is said, and has been for a number of years in the customs service. It was said that on the trial of Edward Stokes for the murder of James Fisk, Jr., Bieral was accused by Stokes of being a "heeler," who was hired to dog him by Fisk. The charge on which Bieral was dismissed from his inspectorship was that he had swindled a poor emigrant woman at Castle Garden. As charged he attempted to collect from her 84 as the alleged duty on a sewing machine she had, which was of American manufacture and therefore duty free. He finally reduced his claim to $2. The facts being reported to his superior officers he was dismissed. When Bieral was taken for identification to the room where Mr. Beattie lay on the sofa, he said, "Yes, I did it," with an air of exultation. After remaining in the room for some time he was brought out and taken to the tombs. As he came out of the room he was laughing, and he walked off with an air of bravado.

Earthquake on Ninafou Island.

A FLAMING MOUNTAIN RISING FROM A LAKE TO THE HEIGHT OF 300 FEET.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—A letter published in this evening's Bulletin, under date of Apia, Oct. 15, says that authentic news has reached Samoa to the effect that on the morning of Sept. 10 over 100 heavy shocks of earthquake occurred on the Island of Ninafou, one of the Tonga group, and that from the bottom of the lake, which is 2,000 feet deep, a mountain has arisen to the height of 300 feet above its surface; also that this mountain has burst out in flames and thrown out hot stones and sand in such quantities as to destroy two-thirds of the cocoanut trees on the island. In Samoa light shocks of earthquake occur so frequently now that they no longer cause any alarm.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until with a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daugh

News has been received here that the obstacles, in the shape of right of way disagreements, along the Bloomsburg and Sullivan Railroad at Benton, are so numerous and troublesome, the company has decided to test the line up Raven's Creek, and has issued instructions to the engineers to run a line up the valley of that creek, and if the ground proves feasible will most likely divert the route at Stillwater.

The Chris of Mr. Baker was exceedingly happy and effective, showing the entire fitness of this comedian for the place he has of late years taken on the legitimate boards.—Evening News, Buffalo.

The outrage and murder of women in country places who venture abroad unattended after dark is becoming an alarmingly frequent occurrence in this country. The murder of Mrs. Catharine Taswell, near Bryn Mawr, when on her way home from church Sunday evening, brings this crime pretty close to Philadelphia. The dangerous tramps who infest and terrorize the suburbs have made country roads extra hazardous for women who venture on them without male escort after the day has begun to fade. As long as such ruffians are at large and the necessity of policing country roads is not recognized, the only safe course for women in suburban districts is not to venture abroad after nightfall unprotected.—*Phila. In renewing her subscription for another year Mrs. Mary A. Reichard of Leighton, Iowa, writes us a pleasant letter in which she says:

Seventeen years ago the tenth of last May, we came to Iowa from Buckhorn, Columbia Co. In all those years your paper has been a weekly visitor to our home. We would be lonely without it, for we still are bound to old Columbia Co. by friendship and kindred ties and their welfare we love to read of. This year has been the great drouth. Corn and potatoes are only half a crop. This is doing well when we remember that not a half inch of rain fall from the 9th. day of May until the first day of Sept. In this county and several others in Iowa wheat and oats were a splendid crop and hay crop was never better. Politics runs high now and have some fine speaking done here. The Republicans are badly scared but we believe in being true to the old Democratic party and all will be well. I have no vote, but am satisfied to send that husband of mine to the polls."

The Tourists Last Night.

Harrigan's Irish and American Tourists held forth at the opera house last night and made fun for eighteen hundred people. Without exaggerating in the least we can say that the show gave universal satisfaction. The scenery of famous and interesting places in Ireland was in itself a good card and many went to see that. The two Barneys made much fun, and they with the "nagur" and Dutchman kept the people in a roar all the time. The bagpipers were something new and appreciated. The dancing was of the best and there never was better or more of it in Renova. Harrigan's Tourists can get a full house here any time.—Renova Evening News.

J. A. Hartman, who for some time past has been engaged in the manufacture of general planing mill work, has associated with him Mr. S. R. Kamp, of Milton. They have changed the name of their establishment to the Keystone Planing and Cabinet Company. They will continue the business of manufacturing door and window frames, doors, sash, blinds, mouldings, brackets and veranda work, but in addition will give attention to making stair rails, balusters, &c., as well, also, cherry, walnut, ash and oak extension tables. New machinery has been added, and all necessary preparations made to do all kinds of work in first-class style and at very moderate prices.

A Handsome Holiday Present.

As the holidays are now approaching we know of no article that will prove a more useful and acceptable present, than the "Wonderful Luburg Chair." Having over fifty changes, it can be adjusted to suit any position of the body, and being one of those wonderful contrivances it seems to please everybody.

It is designed for the parlor, library, or as part furnishing of any room, as a reclining, smoking or for invalids' use, lounge, bed or couch. Their prices are wonderfully low, about one-half what other makers ask.

A Strange Story.

A TRAIN DISPATCHER'S ACCOUNT OF A RAILROAD ORDER AND ITS HISTORY.

From the Detroit Free Press.

Several years ago I was employed as train dispatcher on a Southwestern American railroad. As usual, there were three of us in the office. I had what is called the "second trick," my hours of duty being from 4 p. m. to 12 p. m. The third man, Charlie Burns, who came on at midnight and worked until 8 a. m., was a particular friend of mine. He was a young man of high character, a fine dispatcher and very popular; and when, during the burning days of July, it became known among the men that he was confined to his room by a severe attack of malignant fever, many were the expressions of regret and of hope for his speedy recovery.

During the trying days of Charlie's illness I spent all time I could spare by his side, but on account of his absence from the office it was necessary for the remaining two of us to "double up"—that is, work twelve hours each, my watch being from 8 p. m. to 8 a. m. I came on duty one evening feeling very ill. The weather was so warm I could not sleep well in the daytime; besides, I had spent a considerable part of the day with Charlie, whose illness had now reached a critical stage, and seemed to show little prospect of improvement.

Hence, as you may imagine, I was not at all pleased to find that I was likely to have a busy night of it. A wreck on the road during the day had thrown all the regular trains off time, and besides the usual number of special freights there was a special passenger train to leave Linwood, the Eastern terminus of our division, at 11 p. m. with a large party of excursionists. For several hours I had my hands full. There was a special train of live stock bound East. As usually happens in such cases the excursion did not get ready to leave on time, and it was 11.40 p. m. when they reported for orders at Linwood. I fixed up their orders, got the report of their departure from Linwood at 11.45 and entered it on the train sheet. Then I rose from the table and went over and seated myself by the window, where it was cooler than under the heated gas-jets. I was alone in the office and as I sat there enjoying the cool breeze which came in through the open window a neighboring church clock rang out the hour of 12. From force of habit I glanced at the door, almost expecting to hear Charlie's light footstep on the stair and see the door open to admit him as of old.

"Poor fellow," I thought, "it will be a long time before he enters that door again, if he ever does." Just at the last stroke of twelve, and while my eyes were still fixed on the door, it opened and Charlie Burns entered. My first thought was that in the delirium of fever he had escaped from his nurses and made his way to the office, but when I left him a few hours before I could not have believed that he had strength to get out of bed. I sat and watched him in speechless surprise, which was increased by his strange manner.

Instead of his usual hearty greeting he took no notice of me at all, but walked directly to the table and sat down. Placing his hand upon the key he began calling "Q," which was the signal for Elm Grove, the first station, six miles west of Linwood. "I, I, Q," came the response. "Put out signal for special passenger west and copy." "Ro," "Ro," "Ds," rang out the sounder with Charlie's nimble fingers upon the key. "Ro" was the call for Rosedale, the second station from Linwood, eight miles west of Elm Grove. "I, I, Ro," came back the answer.

Then, as I sat by the widow as one paralyzed, the awful truth flashed across my mind. I had overlooked the stock train, thundering eastward twenty miles an hour, and made no provision for its meeting the excursion train. My blood seemed turned to ice as I heard the reply:

They are at the switch. Ro"

Another minute and it would have been too late. Still apparently oblivious of my presence, Charlie reached for the order book with his left hand, while his right continued to manipulate the key, and I heard the sounder click out the order that held the train. Quick as a flash came back the response from each station and in less time than it takes me to write it the order had been repeated and signed by the conductor and engineer of each train, while Charlie copied it into the order book and returned his "O. K." Then, as I realized that I was saved and a great disaster averted, the revulsion of feeling was too much for my over-strained nerves and I lost consciousness.

An hour after I was awakened by a familiar voice, and looked up to find Frank Dwyer, one of our conductors who had volunteered to watch that night with Charlie, standing over me. "Wake up," old man," said he, "I have bad news for you. Charlie died just as the clock was striking 12." I roused myself and went to the table. There on the order-book was the order just as I had heard it clicked out by the sounder, and "Ro" was calling me to report the two trains safely by. Had I been dreaming and sent the order in my sleep, or had my friend redeemed his promise? The writing in the order-book was in his hand and I have never been able to account for it.

The WilkesBarre & Western R. R.

A recent issue of the Milton Argus says a trip along the route of the Wilkes-Barre & Western Railway evinces the fact that the construction of this important line of railroad is progressing in a very commendable and satisfactory manner. The grading of the first twenty-one miles of the road, between Watsontown and Millville, is nearly completed. The heavy cut at Jerseytown, which is a half mile long and fifty feet deep, through solid rock, and one hundred and fifty feet of which is being tunneled, will be finished in about ten days. The road will be opened for business between Watsontown and Millville in December next, and the local traffic will on this portion of the line alone pay handsome returns upon the cost of construction. Considering the fact that the company is building a first-class road, using only the best materials, putting down heavy sixty-three pound steel rails, with stone ballast, the rapid progress made by the originators and promoters of the enterprise is not only commendable, but very creditable indeed. Knowing them all personally for many years we felt assured from the inception of the enterprise that it could not have fallen into better hands, as all are men of undaunted energy and practical ability."

ALMOST ALL ABOUT BLANKETS.

Will you read about blankets if we give the utmost information we can in the fewest possible words? All sorts of blankets—no, not all sorts—there are tons on tons of blankets that never enter our doors because they never ought to enter yours.

Blankets for use and blankets for beauty and blankets for both. Begin with the prettiest.

California takes the palm for luxurious blankets; and Mission Mills come first. The finest we have from Mission Mills are $35 a pair. Such wool! Imagine Swan's-down not spun and woven but somehow done into blankets! Invisible texture! Whiteness and softness inconceivable! Don't buy them unless for pure extravagance. Think of the care they require! But Mission Mills make useful blankets also, from very fine indeed at $11.50 to—we don't know where to draw the line. Of these we have said already the coarsest are finer than any Eastern blankets, but not so economical.

Golden Gate is another California blanket mill. It lacks the singular fame of the other. Its blankets are only less extravagant. It's the California wool! work too. Such wool demands such work. It seems a pity to put them into blankets. And yet there are people who are willing to pay for them. $10 to $30.

Now for beautiful excellent practical blankets not too fine to enjoy. The finest such are made in this city—the Falls of Schuylkill mill. Begin to think by the pound; about $1.25 a pound for the finest all-wool; not quite so fine $1. Full-size blankets $6 to $12.50 a pair, according to fineness and weight; and smaller for less in proportion.

Another, made in New England, all-wool, not quite so fine, a winning blanket [the border is uncommonly pretty]: about $1.12½ a pound; $7.50, $8.50, and $9.50 a pair, according to weight, for full size blankets.

And here comes in an accident: just one blanket, 79x90 inches, 7 lbs, $6.50 about 93c a pound, all-wool and as good as the $1.12½. We have only a hundred and fifty pairs. When gone no more.

This isn't an accident. Cheaper yet. The blanket for nine out of ten. Cotton warp, wool filling, 75c a pound as near as we can state it. All sizes and weights within reason: $3.75 a 5-lb pair to $9.75 a 13-lb pair. And nobody ought to shiver while these are here for so little. Decidedly below the lowest market; below by 15c a pound at least. No more to be got of course.

And here we ought to just mention a dozen different sorts of blankets called "cheap" because the prices are little. [We don't use the word that way.] A dozen sorts of white blankets $1 to $3.50 a pair. We have to keep them. We sell them mostly for "Institutions." Of course we make them as cheap as we can.

White blankets for crib and cradle. The meanest we have are really best. Two all-wool and soft-wool cradle blankets, 30x40 inches, $1.20 and $1.25. Same as the last but larger, with Grecian border, 40x60 inches, $3. Somewhat finer, all-wool, with cluster border of stripes and pin stripes: 32x42 inches $3; 36x50 inches $3.75 42x60 inches $5. A prettier blanket with damask border, cotton-warp: 32x42 inches $3.50; 36x50 inches $4.50; 42x60 inches $5 50.

Austrian blankets are pretty by color. Blanket-rugs. They are used in sleeping-cars, steamers, traveling, for making wrappers, etc. Figured all over more or less with elaborate damask two-color figures. Cotton warp. Prices for single blankets, not pairs. Six styles for the cradle $2.25; six for the crib $3.50; seven for single bed $5.50; five for three-quarter bed $6.50; eight 70x90 inches $8; five 80x90 inches $10.

Dot blankets, inch-and-a-half dots all over, plain ends, all-wool, 72x84 inches, $7 and $7.50 apiece: the higher price for costlier colors. The colors are the feature. For wrappers.

Daisies instead of dots, $8.50 apiece; navy-blue, and red; black and gold. For wrappers.

Plain gray blanket, border of 2-inch stripes of yellow, pink and light-blue, all-wool, same size, $6.50 apiece.

Two-inch stripes of gray with two-inch stripes of various mixtures of color: blue-and-gold, gray-and-black, blue-and-red, gray-and-pink; $4.50 a pair; same size; cotton warp.

Same blanket, plain gray with cluster border of blue stripes, $3.75 a pair.

Plain gray, blue cluster border, all-wool, same size, $6 a pair.

Army blanket, gray with three-inch blue border, 68x84 inches, $4 each.

Red blanket with black damask border, made of California wool, though not a California blanket: 6-lb, 60x80 inches; $9.50; 8-lb, 64x84 inches, $12; 10-lb, 70x84 inches, $15 a pair.

Red blanket with black cluster border, all-wool, 4lb, 62x76, $3.75 a pair.

Red blanket with 3½-inch border of solid black: 6-lb, 66x78 inches, $6; 7-lb, 69x79 inches, $7; 8-lb, 70x80 inches, $8 a pair.

Red blanket with 5-inch border of solid black, cotton warp, 5 to 9-lb, 60x74 to 80x90 inches, $4.50 to $8.50 a pair.

Red blanket with black cluster border, cotton warp and coarse wool, 4½-lb, 62x76, $3 a pair.

A great many sorts of horse-blankets—need we go into particulars here? $1.25 up.

We have tried to put in the first three words of each paragraph what will help you skip it, if you want to. You will probably find in one of them all you need to know about blankets just now.

The one important point is the size. [We are thinking of bed-blankets.] Let your blanket be big enough to tuck in at the sides and leave you not only unconstrained but room to turn in your sleep. Economize somewhere else; not on the blanket that keeps you warm and safe asleep.

LIVER COMPLAINT

SYMPTOMS: Bad breath; a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the back, sides or joints, often mistaken for rheumatism; sour stomach; loss of appetite; bowels alternately costive and lax; headache; loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; debility; low spirits; a thick, yellow appearance of the skin and eyes; a dry cough, often mistaken for consumption.

How Cured.

"I have been afflicted many years with dyspepsia, sick headache and affection of the kidneys caused by torpid liver. I have tried a great many remedies and physicians prescriptions without success, health failing all the time. During last Fall and Winter I was obliged to suspend the most of my labor in my field of Home Missionary work on account of my health. Early this Spring I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator, and have had more real good health since then than for years before. I use the medicine to relive me when, by exposure or over-exertion, I discover the symptoms of my disease returning. The Regulator relieves me at once, and is more satisfactory in its effects than anything of the kind I ever tried. I have also used it with good success in my family to ward off bilious attacks."—JOS. E. WHEELER Cumberland Pres. Minister, Lebanon, Mo.

A New View of Consumption.

AND ONE WHICH APPEALS TO COMMON SENSE. MANY CURABLE CASES.

[Medical Sifting.]

"Many persons die of Consumption who could easily be cured," says Dr. S. C. Clark, of Watertown, N. Y., "if they would go at it right. I have a new view of the disease. Consumption is not always of lung origin."

"How so? What is it then?"

"Many cases of consumption are secondary. The disease itself prevails everywhere, but the best practitioners refuse to attribute it entirely to inheritance or the weather. If a person lives in the most favorable climate in the world and has any tendency to lung weakness, if certain conditions exist in the system, that climate, however favorable, will not prevent development of the disease. The disorder in such cases is only a secondary symptom in the lungs of some other ailment and can never be cured until approached through its source."

"Yes, doctor; but what is the method of approach?"

"If you dip your finger in acid you burn it; do you not?"

"Yes."

"If you wash this burnt finger every second with the acid, what is the result?"

"Why, constant inflammation, festering and eventual destruction of the finger."

"Precisely! Now then for my method, which commends itself to the reason and judgment of every skillful practitioner. You know certain acids are developed in the body. Well, if the system is all right these acids are neutralized or utilized and carried out. If the system is run down by excesses, anxiety, continual exposure, or overwork, these acids accumulate in the blood. If there is any natural weakness in the lung, this acid attacks it, having a natural affinity for it, and if the acid is not neutralized or passed out of the system, it burns ulcerates and finally destroys the lung. Is this clear?"

"Perfectly! But how do you prevent the accumulation of these acids in the system?"

"Irregularities of the liver and kidneys create this excess of acid and the supply can be cut off only by correcting the wrong action of these organs. The kidneys alone should carry out in quantity, in solution, enough of this acid daily, which, if left in the blood, would kill four men. When the stomach, the liver and the kidneys are all conspiring to increase the acid, the wonder is that weak lungs resist death as long as they do!"

"But you have not told us how you would treat such cases."

"No, but I will. The lungs are only diseased as an effect of this acid or kidney poison in the blood. After having exhausted all authorized remedies to correct this acid condition. I was compelled in justice to my patients, to use Warner's safe cure: though a proprietary remedy, it is now recognized, I see, by leading physicians, by Presidents of State Boards of Health and by insurance physicians, as a scientific and the only specific for those great organs in which over ninety per cent. of diseases originate or are sustained."

"Is this form of treatment successful?

"It is wonderfully so, and for that reason I am only too willing that you should announce it to the world of consumptives."

Note by the Publishers:—We have received th above interview from H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y., with the request that we publish it for the good of suffering people. In a foot note to their letter they say:

"The experience of Dr. Clark is not strange to us. In our correspondence we have found that many thousands of people are suffering from what they think is Consumption, whereas the real difficulty is with the liver and kidneys proven by the fact that when these organs are restored to health by the use of Warner's safe cure, the consumption disappears, and so does uremic or kidney poisoning, which causes so many symptoms of diseases that the human system is subject to. The same may be said of rheumatism, caused by an acid condition of the system. We insist upon what we always have claimed, if you remove the cause, the system will soon perfect the work already begun. Mrs. Rev. Dr. Theodore Wolf, of Gettysburg, Pa., wife of the editor of the Lutheran Quarterly, said her friends thought her far gone with Consumption,' but after a thorough treatment with Warner's safe cure, she says: 'I am perfectly well.' We can cite thousands of such cases, but one is enough. If you publish the above article, kindly send us a marked copy."

We gladly give place to the article, for if we can in any way stay the ravages of Consumption, which carries away so many millions yearly, it is our bounden duty so to do.]—PUB.

Life in a Circus Tent.

GLITTER AND SHOW ARE ON THE OUTSIDE. ALL HANDS WORK HARD.

There is an individualty possessed by the circus man, especially in the case of the old time showman who has journeyed on wagons and horseback through the cross-roads and green lanes of the remote rural districts. He comes in contact with many sorts of people, in every condition of life, and his knowledge of the characteristics of the inhabitants of the different parts of the country is extensive. A reporter recently called upon a showman at his residence in Brooklyn and gained much information about the ups and downs of circus tent life.

"I have been out every season for twenty two years," said he, "and I believe I am able to give as many points about the business as any man you will find in Brooklyn. A circus man who follows the calling for any length of time has abundant opportunities for knowing the country as well as the habits and customs of the people he finds in it. Of course there are lots of people besides showmen who travel constantly, but the majority of these merely go from one large city to another, and their ideas of the country are such as can be obtained by looking out of car windows. There is little difference in the routine work of a show nowadays, except of course, the manner of transportation from one town to another. The first duty after unloading the cars in the morning is to get up the horse and dressing tents. This is done by the drivers and grooms. While this work is going on the cooks and helpers are employed in putting up the mess tents and preparing the breakfast.

"The next act is to get ready for the street parade. All have to take part except the canvas and property men, who get up the big tents. The street parade lasts less than an hour. One object of it is to draw the crowd away from the grounds so the men can have a better chance to work. The duties of workmen who travel with the railroad shows are less arduous than in former years. They sleep on the cars and generally get in early enough for breakfast, but their lives are in much greater danger than they formerly were. Last season six circus men were killed in Michigan, where two sections of a train collided. Another accident, in Iowa, caused the death of one man and wounded many more, and every one knows the fate of poor Jumbo, in Canada. Scarcely a season passes without a fatal accident happening to circus trains in different parts of the country.

"The boss hostler has about the most responsible position in the working force of a show. He has charge of all the horses and wagons, as well as the ring horses and ponies, together with their trappings. He is held accountable when the show gets on the lots late or misses a train through delay in getting away. The press agent is always the life of a circus, large or small. In a big show there are always one or two cars set apart for the use of the press agent and his assistants. They are usually shrewd, wideawake newspaper men who know how to hustle. I can't say who is the best."—New York Mail and Express.

The Historian heard the other day a story of a small boy belonging to a newspaper man who lives at the South End. The boy doubtless inherits his father's talents, for he is given to telling stories of his own deeds, which are as large in conception as they are circumstantial in their detail. The other day he told a particularly incredible whopper, and his father took him in hand. "See here, young man," said he, "that never happened to you and you know it. If it had I should have known all about it at the time." "Well, I guess you were so that you couldn't know about it, papa." "Why, how was that?" "It happened to me such a while ago that you weren't even born."—Boston Record.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, and UNPARALLELED MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in his exclusive sale by a deed given to each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every house-keeper, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, AMONG ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or gentleman who would like to employ agents to work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guarantee, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and to these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the busy season, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and canvassers in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. RANGER MANUFACTURING CO., 210 Smithfield St., Pittsburg.

THE COLUMBIAN,

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica, and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

367 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

After suffering for nearly two years with a continuous attack of rheumatism; after trying almost every specific, domestic and foreign, which the credulity of a wise man, or a fool, might lead one to trust in, it was a double pleasure to me to find a remedy which, originating in the famous "City of Elms"—the home of my ancestors and its first founders—has proved so invaluable a blessing. It is nearly six months since I was led to trace out the significance of that word Athlophoros. It has proved to me, in a good degree, a renewer of my former vigor and strength, so that I have been enabled to move about with almost youthful activity, and to feel, while approaching my "three score years and ten," that I have a new hold on life. I believe your philosophy of the disease to be correct that it has its origin in the blood, and that your remedy touches those joints and muscles, loosening the nodes, which have been brought into subjection to this dreadful disease, and sets them free as no other remedy that I have tried. I have been cautious for so long a time in recommending it to others till I had tried its efficacy in my own case; and I am now free to state the estimate I put upon it, as the safest and most efficient cure I have any knowledge of.

A. B. DAVENPORT.

IT IS NO POWDER. IT IS NO MEDICINE.

It Sells for Five Cents Per Pound, in Boxes.

Chick-chick-er-re-kee (poultry food and preventive of disease for poultry), the great egg food, produces eggs prodigiously and is good for the health of the feeding. It is the first article of its kind ever Patented in the United States, Canada and England. Try it. It costs only five cents per pound. It is no powder. Chickens will eat it. That ought to convince you that it is good. If your Grocer, Druggist, Hardware or Country Storekeeper will not get it for you, send me one dollar, and I will ship you a twenty-pound box by freight, or one hundred pounds for five dollars. A large box will cost you no more freight than a small box. Attend to your poultry, if you want to make a profit out of them, just the same as you attend to your land. Unless you manure your land it will not pay you. Just so with poultry; you must give them something besides feed. They must have material to answer for grinders, and material for the egg. If you feed Chick-chick-er-re-kee (egg food) every day you will never have any sick chickens, and your hens will lay eggs when otherwise they would not. You will never do without it after a fair trial. Do not pay twenty-five or fifty cents a pound for medicine to feed your poultry when you can get a better article from your storekeeper at five cents a pound. Don't be a clam; try it. D. LANGELL'S ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Having struggled 20 years between life and death with ASTHMA or PHTHISIC, treated by eminent physicians, and receiving no benefit, I was completely prostrated during the last 5 years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath My sufferings were beyond description. In despair I experimented on myself by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered this WONDERFUL CURE FOR ASTHMA AND CATARRH, warranted to relieve the most stubborn case of ASTHMA IN FIVE MINUTES, so that the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Please read the following condensed extracts from unsolicited testimonials, all of recent date:

Oliver V. R. Holmes, San Jose, Cal., writes: "I find the remedy all and even more than represented. I received instantaneous relief."

E. M. Carson, A. M., Warren, Kansas, writes: "Was treated by eminent physicians of this country and Germany; tried the climate of different states—nothing afforded relief like your preparation."

T. E. Gates, County Treasurer, Philadelphia, Miss, writes: "Have used the Remedy. Would not live without it. Every one that uses it recommends it."

L. B. Phelps, P. M., Griggs, Ohio, writes: "Suffered with asthma 40 years. Your medicine in 5 minutes does more for me than the most eminent physician did for me in three years."

H. C. Plumpton, Joliet, Ill., writes: "Send Catarrh Remedy at once. Cannot get along without it. I find it to be the most valuable medicine I have ever tried."

Geo. W. Brady, Nelson Co., Ky., writes: "I am using the remedy. Gained 8 pounds in 3 weeks. would not be without it."
